

Advanced Medical Life Support (AMLS) Provider

The Advanced Medical Life Support (AMLS) course is sponsored by the National Association of Emergency Medical Technicians (NAEMT) and is endorsed by the National Association of EMS Physicians (NAEMSP). It is the first course that addresses the most common medical complaints and offers a "think outside the box" method of assessing and managing a patient in medical crisis. The course emphasizes using the scene size-up and history and physical exam to systematically rule-out and rule-in possibilities and probabilities of the medical problem. This course offers an assessment-based approach and progresses to a diagnostic-based approach to develop a treatment plan for a specific medical condition.

AMLS is a 16-hour, two-day program that includes interactive lectures and teaching and evaluation stations. The interactive/case-based lectures include the following topics: patient assessment, airway management, assessment of the shock patient, dyspnea/respiratory failure, chest pain, altered mental status, and abdominal pain. Teaching stations follow the associated lectures each day. Participants apply critical thinking skills to integrate pathophysiology and assessment findings to determine treatment intervention. Provider recognition is approved for three years.
